WORDS AND THE JAPANESE

The New York Sun says of the Japanese notes and promises that the proof of the pudding is in the eating. "The test of Japan's fair words is in the future. One of its objects in China is to eradicate the prestige of western nations among the peoples of Asia. This purpose it has already largely accomplished. That it will sacrifice the advantages it has thus gained is an assumption few will readily embrace."

The Japanese are expert in the use of words. They build lovely patterns with them. They say the most agreeable things. The unfortunate part is that words with the Japanese are words. All too often the words are one and the designs another. Germany believed it could invest in the Japanese puppet state of Manchoukuo and profit. It invested, but there are no profits, for the Japanese are squeezing available profits out of Manchoukuo.

In the case of the wanton destruction of the American gunboat Panay, the Japanese issued denials by the wholesale in the face of damaging evidence against them. They stuck to their denials until they stood revealed as champions in the art of abusing truth. Words are used by the Japanese to confuse and confound, not to disclose what has happened.

THE BATTLING BIBLIOPHILES

The book worm has, at last, turned. Not only turned but, it seems, has dropped into a weaving, Dempsey crouch and is just waiting for somebody somewhere to start something.

What has come over the gentle art of belles lettres is hard to understand. But we do know that recently the world of literature has stolen the thunder of the prize ring, producing by far the better fights.

Fist tossing among the literati was more or less confined to nonentities until a few months ago when the historic battle between Max Eastman and Ernest Hemingway took place.

The book people were a bit stunned at the fury of that fracas put it down as something that just wouldn't happen again. But now it seems it was the signal of the dawn of a new era in the world of writing.

For fresh is the news that a theatrical critic in New York has been pummeled by a playwright who in turn was given a noteworthy chastisement by a group of notables who chanced to be at the scene.

What this will all come to, no one can foresee. But if the warring among the word-making boys doesn't settle down schools of journalism will need to convert themselves into gymnasiums to better fit their graduates for the gentle field of literature.

Only 3 per cent of India's vast population have voting privileges.

The average American boy today is 10 pounds heavier and two inches taller than the average boy of 50 years ago.

A bee can pull 30 times its own weight, and is thus proportionally as strong as a locomotive.

Plant scientists are trying to produce a watermelon that will fit the average ice box.

Pedestrians have no rights in the streets of Buenos Aires. If injured by a car they have no come back. That must sound like heaven to a Sunny driver.

SPRING ROADS

Before the good roads movement had attained its present measure of success the roads of the United States were in terrible condition during spring weather for four to six weeks. A few locations that had naturally hard roads were exempt from this affliction, but as a whole the country people of America wallowed in mud.

It was discouraging to country and rural life. Farmers who desired to start spring work, were hampered by the almost impassable roads. You can't make much progress in doing business, if the wheels of your vehicle sink into the swampy roads nearly up to their hubs. Business at the stores was severely handicapped in those days by the bad roads.

Today we have seen an enormous improvement, and in this locality the roads are so hardened that this difficulty has practically disappeared. Still, taking the country as a whole, some of the country roads are probably still in bad condition for several weeks in spring, which does something to delay business.

The methods of road maintenance in former years were often unscientific. In many localities about all they did was to scrape up the loose dirt and mud from the gutters into the center of the traveled way, from which it would be washed out when the first rains came.

If people are to be induced to live in rural locations, they must have some way of getting into the business centers without having to plough through mud. They can't all be provided with cement and macadam highways. But modern ideas will build roads for them that will be adequate for their purpose, without too great expense.

Information can always be had from technical and state authorities as to how difficult conditions in any locality can be dealt with. Give the farmer a good road and he can make a good home anywhere.

Bugologists claim that the worker bee has a greater homing instinct than the highly publicized pigeon. No wonder—the bee always goes home because that's where her honey is.

All of which, sadly enough, reminds us of the income tax collector. That guy, in a couple of months, will be putting the bee on a great many of us!

A New York society leader says that no well-dressed woman need spend more than $20,000 a year on clothes. Make it $19,999.50. Madam—then the husband can afford a new barrel for himself every year.

FORTY YEARS AGO

J. J. Reilly and his talented company of local artists will present "Colleen Bawn" at the opera house tonight for the benefit of St. Vincent de Paul church.

"I will take orders for the world renowned Stark Bros. nursery at Louisiana, Mo., for spring delivery. Anything grown in any nursery in the United States and of the best quality. A. Farnham, 207 Ohio street."

The West Sixth street property owners who object to the manner in which this thoroughfare was paved will hold a business meeting at the council tomorrow.

John J. Devine of Clifton City, who shipped more wood to Sedalia than any other man in central Missouri, is spending the day here.

The two and one-half story frame house at the northwest corner of Third and Engineer streets, known as the Sedalia house, one of the landmarks of this city and for many years a well known hostelry owned by Mesdames Harvey and McVey was damaged to the extent of a couple of hundred dollars by fire this morning.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The annual luncheon of the council of administration of the Missouri Bankers Association at Walsh's cafe in this city today proved one of the most delightful occasions the bankers belonging to the council have enjoyed for a long time. W. F. Keyser, secretary, presided.

The Knights of Columbus gave an enjoyable euchre and dance last night. In the distribution of prizes they went to Joseph Kraus, Mrs. E. J. Donnelly and William Couhig.

Mrs. George K. Mackey last evening entertained with a children's party at her home, 906 West Seventh street, as a compliment to her little niece, Vitula Van Dyne, the occasion being the little girl's birthday anniversary.

feels that much New Deal spending was unsound and ill-considered. Also he approves of many Roosevelt reforms as aimed in the right direction, but thinks they were too hastily conceived and incompetently administered.

In Mason's opinion, one of the chief weaknesses of the Democratic regime is that it is too full of surprises. He believes that it is possible to be progressive and yet be orderly and business like, thereby avoid putting industry and the country in a constant state of uncertainty.

Mason is not much of a politician, nor has he many of the tricks of the average politician up his sleeve. He talks a little hesitantly, very quietly, and is anything but a platform speller. Nevertheless he inspires confidence and gets his ideas across.

Hamilton's Man
One of the most paradoxical things about Mason becoming secretary of the Republican National Committee is the fact that he was picked for the job by Chairman John Hamilton.

Hamilton has not been noted for liberal leanings in the past, but of recent months he has become convinced that if the Republican party is to go places it must clean house and bring forward new men and new ideals.

So when the Republican National committee authorized Hamilton to pick a new secretary, he decided to put his theory into practice. Mason was the result.

Note. — Hamilton proposes to bring more leaders of Mason's type into the GOP high command during the coming months.

SEALED ORDERS

Our haven dim and far;

We can but man the helm right cheerily,

Steer by the brightest star,

One Minute Pulpit

Slothfulness casteth into a deep sleep; and an idle soul shall suffer hunger.—Proverbs 19:15.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
CONSTANCE COBBY—heroine; richest girl in the world.
BRET HARDESTY—hero; brick builder.
RODNEY BRANDON—Connie's fiancé.
KATHIE BLYN—Connie's "double."

Yesterday's disclosure of her true identity ends Connie's romance. Bret is forgiving but not understanding. So the weight of Connie's millions rests on her shoulders again.

CHAPTER XIV

"I'm going home," Connie told Eloise a few days later. The words held an emptiness—for how could any place be "home," when Bret would not be there!

Yet, it was because of Bret that she was leaving. He had scarcely looked at her these past few days, not once directly, deep into her eyes; he had had only the few necessary words to say. He had meant it when he had said everything was over between them. Now the work in the camp's office was lighter, so nearly was the bridge completed, that old Pop Walters could manage without Connie's help.

"There was a time," Eloise said, "when I would have been glad. But not now. You know I shall hate to see you go; you know I'll miss you."

Connie said that she, too, would miss her friend. She was packing her few belongings into the imitation leather bag; its gilt letters "K. B." did not look so bright, somehow. But she would carry it. She would wear the navy blue suit and the perky little hat.

No one, besides Bret, must know, until she had returned, her true identity.

"Someone else will miss you, too," Eloise said, smiling her shy, quiet smile. There was no hurt in the grave eyes now. She had so come to love her friend that she could put aside her own heart's desire for her. Bret always had been her big brother; that he would remain, she knew.

Connie shook her golden head. She could not trust herself to speak for a moment or two. She had stayed on, hoping that Bret would really forgive her, really understand, that he would see she was the same girl with whom he had fallen in love, that all her millions did not matter. But now, having failed, she could no longer bear to stay. On an impulse she had decided she must go at once.

DO things on an impulse, she thought bitterly; it had been an impulse—a crazy, thrilling one—that had brought her here. It seemed fitting that another should take her away.

"I'll catch the midnight train," she said to Eloise. "It stops, when it's flagged, at the junction. Bret won't know I've gone until morning. By then I'll be miles and miles away—as he claimed I am, anyway—in another world entirely different from this."

"You shouldn't go without telling Bret!" the other girl protested. "You may have quarreled—I know something has gone wrong between you. But don't you know that old saying about true love? And yours—and Bret's—is true, if any love ever was."

"You're a darling, Eloise," Connie said softly. She did not think she could have been as fine, had Bret loved someone else. The thought brought a stab of pain. Bret might yet come to do that very thing. He might, in time, find that Eloise was the only girl in the world for him. His love might have been true, but it had not stood the test of cents and dollars, after all. He would not marry her because she had so much money. And all her life she had been afraid to accept anyone, even Rodney, for fear he would be marrying her for her millions!

"Surely you'll leave some message for Bret," Eloise urged. "When he finds you're gone, he'll ask me if you didn't leave a message."

Connie shook her head again. She snapped the lock on the bag. "I don't believe he will," she said. But if he did—her heart skipped a beat—that would mean he still cared a little. She must leave some word for him; something to let him know that she cared, too, and would "forever and ever."

"If he asks," Connie said, "tell him that I loved him because I didn't think he was afraid of anything. Tell him that I wouldn't be—if he had loved me enough—and that he has forgotten that love is the strongest, the biggest thing in the world. Bigger than all the hills or mountains, bigger

Girls' Interest In Organizations

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
"DEAR DR. MYERS: Just what are your reactions on the matter of girls' organizations? I mean particularly the Campfire Girls, Girl Scouts, the Juniors of the American Legion Auxiliary, etc?"
"Last fall my daughter (who was 10 years old then) joined the Campfire Girls and I was pleased. She attended the meeting but never was really enthused over it and simply went because her chum went."

"But her chum of last year has moved away, and now my daughter doesn't attend the weekly meetings of the Campfire Girls at all, although she is a member in good standing. I questioned her but didn't get much out of it except that she thinks the group she is with don't do anything interesting."

"Now then, supposing she is in a group of uninteresting children and with a guardian who doesn't know how to pep things up, would you suggest my trying to find a more interesting group for her to join with, or would it be better if I just let the matter ride?"

May Be Poor Mixer
"Do you think that a lack of enthusiasm on the part of my girl suggests that she is a poor mixer (as I secretly mistrust), and that perhaps it would be a good idea to insist on her attending the meetings? How can a parent help a child to become a good mixer, friendly with other children, and at ease with strangers?"

Answer: For most children, I am enthusiastic over Campfire Girls, Girl Scouts, and the like. Unless your child shows excessive over-crowding and can't afford the evening out each week on account of school homework, see that she attends regularly for at least a stretch of one year. If at the end of that time she indicates dislike of the organization or disinterest in it, suggest to her that she join another. The worst she can do is to grow indifferent and attend only occasionally. A child misses much who does not learn to be loyal to a cause she espoused in all seriousness.

Some non-social children don't ever learn to be good mixers in these organizations, though we think they should. They also need informal frequent contact in and about the home with other children—not always easy to accomplish.

buy. She's rejected three. You've advised her to buy all three of the others or to close her eyes and grab one—and she hasn't even heard you speak. You're still talking and the salesgirl is still talking. People are passing up and down the aisle.

But the woman you think you know doesn't hear a thing. She's gone into a trance. Her eyes are fixed. She's concentrating on something you cannot see. It's a mysterious moment. She's "deciding"..... Something's racing through her mind. What she is thinking you'll never know. Is she wondering how it will wear? Whether the colors are fast? How it will go with other clothes? Whether it's worth the money? Or whether she can afford it? Or whether it's the right style.

How do you know? How can ANY man understand what is going through a woman's mind as she stands there at the counter, in a deep trance, in that mysterious moment—just before she comes out of her dream and says: "I'll take this!"

So you think you know "just how a woman's mind works?" All right! Go shopping with her and see how little you really know.

than all the gold; bigger even than life itself."

"I'll tell him—everything you said," Eloise promised. Her eyes were filled with slow tears. She did not understand all that her friend meant by the message. But she knew that love was the biggest thing in this world, perhaps in all the worlds to come.

THERE was no one about in the sleepy little village when Connie stole out of the old brick house late that night. Even the stars had stopped their twinkling; the sky was dark and silent. She looked for the last time at the tall, thin steeple of the little church high on their special hill, at the range of mountains sheltering the valley, at the road that led to Bret's bridge, a lovely reality now of concrete columns, gracefully arched, and of sturdy steel.

This was goodbye to all of that—and to so much more besides. Goodbye to freedom and laughter, to wings that she had tried; goodbye to Bret's strong arms, dark eyes, and warm, tender lips. . . . She gave a little sob and stumbled as she almost ran, the bag bumping against her knees. It was nearly a mile to the junction; she would have to hurry. But that was not the only reason Connie ran.

She knew if she hesitated, if she looked back once more, she would not be able to go on. She would go back to Bret, beg him to tell her that he loved her, throwing pride aside, her millions, everything.

She heard the first faint whistle of the train as she reached the junction, a long, mournful, wailing sound, echoing and re-echoing. There is nothing so sad, she thought, as the whistle of a train at night.

The watchman did not seem to be anywhere about. Connie looked in the baggage room, knocked at the locked door of the small shed. She supposed somehow she, herself, would have to manage to flag the midnight train. There would be no other passenger, that was certain.

But not so certain as she had imagined. She had stepped out on to the platform, in the glare of the blinding eyes of the train that in another moment would be panting and puffing to a standstill, when someone dashed up behind her, caught her two arms raised to wave the signal, spun her around.

Troop 2, Sunflower Troop of Broadway school registered a new member this week, Billy Jo Glick, who transferred from the Mark Twain school. This makes twenty-five registered in our troop with a captain and a lieutenant. As soon as we have a registered troop committee we will be on the honor roll and we are striving to be the first troop to attain that record. Our second class scouts passed one-half of the code at our Tuesday meeting and the first class scouts took a field trip to judge heights and distance. Two new applications for membership were received Tuesday. They are Evelyn Heynen and Gloria Joy Bates.

Troop 3, Arrow troop of Mark Twain school is working on the World Knowledge badge as a troop project. Several girls have written to foreign countries for a correspondent and we are running a race to see who will be the first to bring in a letter to read to the troop. Miss Larkin of the Mark Twain faculty will teach folk dances of the countries which we study. Our troops are planning to make a change in time and place of meeting. An announcement will be given later. An investiture will be held for the Tenderfoot class as soon as the girls get their orders in for the pins.

Frankie June Rogers, Scribe.

Troop 4, Tawawa troop of Lincoln school has changed the troop meeting date from Thursday to Friday afternoon following school. The troop committee of Troop Tawawa is holding a training course each Friday afternoon from 2 to 3:30. Ten women are enrolled in the course. The meeting is held in the rest room on the second floor and all women who are interested in the scout movement are invited to join the course.

Minnie Dawkins, Scribe.

Troop 5, of Sacred Heart school held an investiture ceremony on last Monday for three members who were: Rosalie Bolton, Doris Clifford and Anna Lee Kaiser. Three interest groups were held. Miss Slane, our captain, taught second class first aid, Miss Arlene Downs taught code and Mrs. Landon Welch taught the hostess badge requirements. We have twenty-three members registered and we were 100 per cent in attendance.

Helen Cooney, Scribe.

Troop 6, The Compass Troop of Junior High school had a very interesting meeting on Wednesday with instruction in the World Knowledge badge. Miss Larkin taught a Holland dance and booklets were distributed in which we are to write all we can learn about Holland for the next meeting. Mrs. Loving, our captain, and Mrs. Lattimer, lieutenant, taught the hostess badge to the first class scouts and Mrs. Welch helped the second class girls with their observation work in nature. The meeting adjourned with the singing of the national Girl Scout hymn and Taps.

Elleta Wheeler, Scribe.

Troop 7, Forrestry Troop of Whittier school was unable to have a meeting Tuesday because of the absence of our leader. We will meet next Tuesday and all second class girls are urged to have their code memorized. Opal Wolf was registered last week as a member of our troop.

Meldina Nicholson, Scribe.

Troop 8 Woodland Troop of Horace Mann school had an interesting meeting last Monday with twenty members present. We have two interest groups working on hostess under Mrs. Park and code under Mrs. Welch. Special awards were given out for June Jackels who has moved to Chillicothe. Our next project will be the World Knowledge badge.

Betty Lou Stanfield, Scribe.

Troop 9, Minnehaha troop of Washington school held its regular meeting on Friday. After greeting the Boy Scouts and seeing them off on their overnight trip to Lake Tebo the girls settled down to a study of rocks and minerals. We learned to identify sandstone, limestone, marble, granite, flint, coal, lead ore, zinc ore and Barreys. We reviewed birds, animals, stars, trees and shrubs. Elective badges were awarded as follows: Betty Anton, scribe and patrol leader; Helen Patterson, troop treasurer and assistant patrol leader; Hazel Flom and Betty Ann Harrison finished their tenderfoot tests and will be invested at the next meeting.

Betty Anton, Scribe.

Troop 10, the Star troop of Senior High held its regular meeting on Thursday with the captain, Mrs. H. E. Prewitt in charge. We have fourteen registered scouts and six girls who are due to register this month. All twenty of the girls will work on the World Knowledge badge soon. Nineteen girls answered to roll call. Helen Raney was absent with scarlet fever. We discussed the number of members and decided to close our membership. Miss Betty Field, school nurse, reviewed second class first aid and assigned first class first aid for next Thursday. The Swastika troop were guests for the instruction in first aid. Three of our members are working on the World Knowledge badge. They are Betty Collins, Mary Ethel McGowan and Lou Anamosa. Plans were discussed for spending a day at Little House.

Marvalee Robinson, Scribe.

Troop 11, the Robin Hood troop of Jefferson school will meet Monday in the basement of the school at 12:30 p. m. The regular meeting date will be Tuesday but because of interfering plans we will meet on Monday this week. Plans for adopting a troop flag will be discussed. Also a scribe will be elected.

Troop 12, the Swastika troop of Senior High met on Thursday afternoon and the following new members were admitted to the troop, Ruth Estabrook, Helen Hayes, Nellie Kiehlly, Betty Smith Virginia Hunt and Alice Patrick. Frances Burnett resigned her position as Right Flag Bearer in favor of Alice Patrick. Dorothy May Eirls resigned her position as Right Flag Guard in favor of Nell Kiehlly. Frances Burnett resigned her position of scribe in favor of Virginia Hunt. These girls are to be commended on their fine scout spirit in wanting all members of the troop to share honors rather than a few having all honors. The troop visited the Star troop during the instruction period in first aid. A trip was planned for a party in the near future at Little House at which time Mrs. Wesley Smith will assist as chaperon. At the close of the meeting Frances Burnett and Dorothy Eirls taught the troop a new song for closing as follows:

Now run along home
And jump into bed;
Say your prayers
And cover your head
And this very thing
I say unto you,
"You pray for me
And I'll pray for you."

Frances Burnett was awarded her tenderfoot pin. Meeting closed with the national Girl Scout hymn and Taps.

Virginia Hunt, Scribe.

Brownie Notes
Brownie Pack No. 1 of the Mark Twain school held its registration party on last Wednesday with Brown Owl Scott and Tawny Owl Guyman as hostesses. Games were played and refreshments of Dixie cups and cup cakes were served. Twenty-seven Brownies registered. Two were new. They were Gayle Scruton and Patsy Purnell. We did not have regular Brownie work it being our party day but at our next meeting of the pack we will elect a Pack Reporter.

Brownie Pack No. 2 of Horace Mann school had a very interesting meeting on last Wednesday noon. Two new members were enrolled. They were Charlotte Meyers and Patsy Ann McGinnis. Our lesson was on historical spots in Sedalia. Harriett Bertman ranked first with eight. These were very interesting and Miss Belle Steele, principal of the school who was a visitor to the Pack meeting added some facts to them that we all enjoyed. We each received a card bearing an American flag from Brown Owl Michaels and as many additional flags as we had facts. Upon these cards we wrote the list of historical spots. We also received a treat of cookies and two small story books, each of which we could keep as our own.

Wilma Jean McVey, Reporter.

Brownie Pack 3 is anxiously awaiting the re-opening of the Pack at Broadway school. Brown Owl Van Dyne and Tawny Owl Phipps are taking training and we expect to have one of the best Packs in town just as soon as we reorganize. We will elect a reporter at our first meeting.

Sally Eilers, who with James Ruby Keeler and Lee Dixon Dunn and Mischa Auer, gives Se-appearing in "Ready, Willing and dalia one of the most sparkling Able," a dancing, romancing musical comedies of the year

Today's entertainment at the Uptown Theatre finds one of the best musicals ever made with Ruby Keeler, Lee Dixon, Allen Jenkins, Louise Fazenda, Wini Shaw, Ross Alexander and Hugh O'Connell sharing honors as the dancers and comedians in this brilliant picture that is packed with dancing and singing—happy entertainment.

The companion feature is one of the funniest comedies that has been made, relying on Mischa Auer, who is fast developing into one of the best comedians of the screen, for its humor. Sally Eilers and James Dunn provide the heart-interest, giving another performance that again makes—happy entertainment.

School building with 22 scouts present. David Waggoner led in the scout oath and laws. Virgil Landers presented the colors as Joe Huey led the salute.

Mr. Raab practiced the troop with drill reviews. Virgil Landers was appointed assistant scribe of our troop. O'Grady was then played by all. Four boys could not be caught. They were: Russell Nixon, Hall Pledge, Floyd Decker and Kenneth Clark. Tests were then studied under the threat that we couldn't go to the cabin unless we were second class scouts or more.

Mr. Cain visited our troop. The meeting was closed about nine o'clock.

Wesley Horn, Scribe.

Troop 53 met at Jefferson school Wednesday at 7:30. We began the meeting with the pledge of allegiance and followed with the scout oath and law. After a report of good turns, we all studied the compass and tracking. Some of the boys passed part of their tenderfoot test. At 8:40 we played games; leap frog and tug-o-war. At 9 we gave the scout benediction and went home. Scoutmaster Lewis Allen was in charge of the meeting.

LeRoy Bouton, Scribe.

Troop 56 The meeting opened with Jack Dedrick leading the troop in the scout oath. Ralph Williams led the pledge to the flag. Each patrol went to their corners for business and while there Mr. Marrow explained about the scout hike and what we were to bring. The hike is going to be Friday and Saturday, Jan. 21-22. Our assistant scout master is D. S. Barnes. Our troops were visited by Mr. W. L. Fuqua. We were very glad to have him and want him to visit us again.

Glen L. Michaelis, Assistant Scribe.

Troop 54 We met at the First M. E. church Tuesday, January 18, with a good attendance. After the business meeting, Old Beaver Patrol went to the show on money we had saved. The rest of the troop practiced signalling with the key and soulder. We dismissed with the scoutmaster's benediction. Owing to the absence of our scoutmaster we will have our meeting on Wednesday, Jan. 26, instead of Tuesday. All come and bring a friend. They are welcome.

Billy Pulliam, Scribe.

Troop 50 Troop 50 held its regular meeting Wednesday, Jan. 19, 1938. The scoutmaster, Evan Holloway, was in charge. Senior patrol leader, Clarence Roe and assistant scout master, Marian Meyers, were present. Scout Blankenship passed his test for second class. The

MYRNA LOY AND TONE TOGETHER FOR FIRST TIME

Rosalind Russell, Walter Pidgeon Also Seen in "Man-Proof," Coming to the Screen

An ultra-modern story of a four-sided romance, "Man-Proof," opens today at the Liberty theatre with a stellar cast headed by Myrna Loy, Franchot Tone, Rosalind Russell and Walter Pidgeon.

Famous for her portrayals as the ideal American wife, Miss Loy now deviates from her usual roles to play a single woman whose man is stolen by a rival in lavish settings of metropolitan flavor, Miss Loy appears as a newspaper artist in love with a social climber, Walter Pidgeon. Pidgeon weds an heiress, Rosalind Russell, instead, and they leave on their honeymoon. Franchot Tone, a cartoonist, secretly loves Miss Loy but will not admit it to her. They remain "pals." Miss Loy temporarily forgets her defeat until the honeymooners return, when she renews her siege.

The wife, Rosalind Russell, finds her husband in Miss Loy's rooms and offers him a divorce. As he will lose his soft job with his wife's rich father, he declines the divorce. Miss Loy at last realizes the foolishness of her infatuation for the married man. She and Tone pledge to remain "pals," but her mother knows they are in love.

Richard Thorpe directed "Man-Proof" with an outstanding cast which includes Rita Johnson, Nana Bryant, Ruth Hussey, Leonard Penn, John Miljan, William Stack, Oscar O'Shea and Dan Tobey.

ALL DAY SESSION BY THE COUNTY COUNCIL OF P.T.A.

Importance Stressed of Guidance and Assis- tance to Youths

Thursday, January 20., the Pettis County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations met at the Broadway school for an all day meeting. The local unit membership of more than 200 in the rural Congress units was well represented by presidents and delegates from 12 of the groups.

Including members of the Sedalia P. T. A. groups more than forty people attended.

Mrs. P. R. Burford, program chairman, in preparing illustrations for the theme, "Community Responsibilities for Citizenship," had asked Irvin Raut, executive secretary of the Sedalia Boys' Work Council, to give a talk. Mr. Raut has had a number of years' experience with young people both in school and in other juvenile fields. In speaking on the topic, "You Never Can Tell," he stressed the importance of finding the interests of young people and providing guidance in assisting individuals to accomplish aims which are socially desirable.

A play, "America Counts the Cost," was used to show the part the Congress of Parents and Teachers may take through local associations to guide the youth of today and aid those who are interested in their development.
Mrs. Burford, as director was the reader in the play, the following members from the Sedalia and rural units with five of the children from Broadway school were: America, Mrs. C. E. Van Horn; Small Children, Charla

At the beginning of the afternoon session the group was led in singing two P. T. A. songs by Mrs. Lloyd Kirkpatrick with Mrs. E. B. Sparks at the piano.
A solo, "I Shall Not Pass Again
This Way," by Miss Louise Ingle of the Broadway faculty was enjoyed by the group.

Plans For Fair Booth

Mrs. M. E. Green, council president, presided at the business and round table discussion which was started during the morning session and concluded at the close of the afternoon session. Definite plans for the financing of the P. T. A. booth, which the council will sponsor at the 1938 State Fair, were made. At the close of the morning session, Mrs.
J. D. Williams told of a reply which she had received from the Federal Commissioner of Education concerning a project sponsored by the government.
She circulated a paper for signature but no vote was taken on the matter by the group.

A delicious covered dish lunch contributed by those attending was served in the school lunch room at the noon hour.

Mrs. Paul Baum, Founder's
Day chairman of the council, suggested several types of programs for Founder's Day in February. Copies of plays were displayed. Other material displayed included charts on various Congress activities, booklets of units studies from the Liberty school, Mrs. Robert Rogers, teacher, a model P. T. A. scrapbook from the Bothwell School Association by Mrs. Earl Dirck, president. All of the units present were given a packet of material including the January News Sheet.

Mrs. William L. Reed, president of the Sedalia Council, announced that Mrs. Frank Dorsey, president of the Missouri Congress of Parents and Teachers, would be the guest speaker at the Founder's Day Banquet to be given February 15 by the Sedalia Council. Members of the local groups were urged to attend, as Mrs. Dorsey is an able and pleasing speaker.

Produces Strong, Vigorous Lamb Crop By Use of Proper Feed Ration

Above: A flock of thrifty ewes on the Les Wadleigh farm near Sedalia feeding on fodder scattered approximately 40 rods from the sheep barn. This is one method of assuring sufficient exercise for the pregnant ewe.

The elimination of pregnancy disease and production of a strong, vigorous lamb crop are the results of proper feed, care and management of the ewe flock during the fall and winter months. One important step toward successful sheep production is the feeding of a good ration.
If possible, it should contain a legume hay.

During the past several months, Mr. Wadleigh has been feeding a roughage ration consisting of approximately 1 1/2 pounds of alfalfa hay and 2 to 2 1/2 pounds of fodder per ewe per day. For a period of three to four weeks prior to lambing, the ewes will receive one-half to one and one-half pounds per day of a grain ration consisting of corn, barley and bran. On such a ration, the ewes can be expected to gain 10 to 20 pounds per ewe during the winter and go into lambing time in good condition.

Under similar feed and management last winter, Mr. Wadleigh was able to produce 58 good market lambs from his flock of 44 ewes.

When legume hays are not available for the ewe flock, the following ration gives good results: 1 1/2 pounds bright fodder or other non-legume roughage, 3-5 pounds oats, and 3-5 pounds bran.

The grain ration may need to be increased two to four weeks before lambing time, depending upon the condition of the ewes.
Especially is it important in feeding a non-legume ration that a mineral mixture of equal parts of finely ground limestone, bone-meal, and salt is fed.

Some of the practices recommended by the Missouri College of Agriculture at lambing time are:

1. Separate ewes from flock by placing in small pens before lambing.

2. Keep ewe and lambs in pen for three or four days after lambing.

3. Reduce grain ration three to four days before lambing to prevent milk fever.

With morning came the repair crews

A winter rain, falling slowly from leaden December skies, froze to telephone poles and lines.
Hard on its heels came the wind.
Ice-laden wires snapped and poles splintered before the blast.

Night found scores of towns throughout the storm region handicapped by crippled telephone service.

But...with the morning came the repair crews. Hastily gathered from regions untouched by storm, by a management long familiar with such emergencies, they poured into the stricken area with trucks, tools and materials.
Day and night they rushed the work of reconstruction.

One advantage to you of the Bell System's far-flung organization is this: When disaster flattens the telephone system that serves you, men and money and materials are instantly available for the prompt repair of the damage.

soon after lambing.

8. Many new born lambs are saved by removing mucous from the nose and drying before they become chilled.

Even after the pregnant ewe has had the proper feed and care, the difference between profit and loss may be determined at lambing time.

Trader, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Bichsel, 619 West Third street, at 8:15 o'clock Friday night following a lingering illness, will be conducted at the home of Mrs. Bichsel at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

restrict gasoline jobbers' margins of profit.

Among the men convicted today were three officials of a company previously acquitted—Tidewater Associated Oil Company—and one man not connected with a major oil company, A. V. Bourque of Tulsa, Okla., secretary of the Western Petroleum Refiners Association.

The government alleged the defendants rigged the prices through a program of purchasing surplus gasoline from independent refiners, on whose selling quotations the majors, by contracts, based their prices to their jobber customers. Litigation In Other Suits

The jurors received $448 each for their services for the last 112 days.

Dismantling of defense headquarters in the temporary oil capitol, from which much of the industry had been run for nearly four months, began tonight. The burdensome job of moving may take a week or 10 days.

Authorities in the justice department at Washington declined to discuss the possibility of dealers recovering damages from the convicted firms under the Sherman anti-trust act, which provides a basis for suing for recovery of triple damage.

The department explained that under the law the "extent of damage" must be proved, and said that "in this particular case dealers might encounter difficulty."

Several other important anti-trust suits are in litigation. One, filed in New York, is against the Aluminum Company of America, and another names the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies.

STEEL COMPANY PROGRAM CALLS FOR 80 MILLION

Senate Committee Hears Of Huge Spending For Construction

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The United States Steel Corporation intends to spend $80,000,000 on plant modernization during September 1, B. F. Fairless, its president, wrote the senate unemployment committee today.

Fairless, whom illness prevented from appearing personally before the committee, said that amount remained unspent from last year's authorization.

"It is hoped that these expenditures can be made in regular course in completion of the projects," his letter said. "If such can be done, about one-half, or $40,000,000 would be expended in the first quarter of 1938 and the other half would be expended in the second and third quarters of 1933.

More Expenditures in 1938

"In addition, if business conditions warrant, there will be, undoubtedly, other expenditures in considerable amounts during 1938."

Apparently replying to Robert H. Jackson, assistant attorney general, who has criticized the failure of steel companies to reduce steel prices since the business slump began, Fairless wrote:

"It is clear that prices can not be reduced without a corresponding reduction in costs, of which wages is the most important part."

Walter S. Tower, executive secretary of the American Iron and Steel Institute, disputed in direct testimony statements to the effect that steel price increases had "far outtrun the cost of production."

Reports Slight Gain

Tower reported to the committee a slight gain in steel operations since the new year began, and indications of "a moderate measure of further improvement during the early months of the year."

Referring to Tower's statement regarding prices, Chairman Byrnes (D-SC) asked him for figures on earnings of the steel industry following increases, one of which took place in the autumn of 1936 and a second in the spring of 1937.

"I think the probability is that the quarterly statements of the various companies would show somewhat larger earnings in the autumn of 1936 through the spring of 1937, reflecting largely substantial increase in the volume of operations," Tower replied.

He agreed with Byrnes that prices were raised some 21 per cent and wages 31 per cent, and when the chairman asked whether a five per cent rise in prices would not have covered the pay raise, he expressed the emphatic opinion that it would not.

SUSPECT WILSON ON OTHER CHECKS

J. O. Wilson, arrested at California, Mo., by Sheriff Rudy Walter and turned over to the Sedalia police who held a warrant for his arrest charging him with giving a forged certified check to H. E. Curtin at the Terry Hotel, Saturday was identified, according to the police, as being the man who passed two bad checks at the Waldman Clothing store on August 7.

W. C. Harding of the clothing store, called police headquarters and when shown Wilson identified him, the police said. According to Mr. Harding he gave him two checks one for $5 and another for $15 and at that time used the name of Harley Foutz.

Wilson's real identity, the police said, is Fred Lewis of Kansas City, Mo.

The police are making further investigation to determine if he is the same person who several months ago passed numerous checks to Sedalia merchants all of which "bounced back" marked forgery.

He is held in the county jail pending a preliminary hearing.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Nebraska Cornhuskers got back into the Big Six basketball race here tonight by trouncing the Kansas State Wildcats 46 to 32 before approximately 5,500 fans.

PROGRAM TO BE OFFERED BEFORE FARMERS JAN. 26

—O. T. Coleman, soils and crops specialist.

3:00 p. m. Adopting the soils and crops conference to the county extension program and making plans for the coming year.—E. B. Winner, assistant county extension agent.

3:30 p. m. Adjournment.

Lime in Fertilization

The kind of lime and fertilizer that give best results, the kind of crops they benefit most and the way to apply them for largest returns on Pettis County farms will be discussed at the conference.

Experimental results show that certain kinds of lime used in certain ways often gives disappointing results. Also certain crops do not give much response to liming, while others are greatly benefited by it. Under certain conditions smaller amounts of finely ground limestone used properly may be more profitable than heavy applications of the 10-mesh material.

Fertilizers give largest returns for each dollar invested in them when properly used. The kind and amount of fertilizer applied to the different crops grown on soils of different types and degrees of fertility will determine largely the return one will get from them.

The realization of the value of commercial fertilizer is shown by the fact that 634½ tons of fertilizer was used by Pettis county farmers in the fall of 1937 in seedings of wheat and barley. If applied at an average rate of 125 pounds per acre, this was enough fertilizer to fertilize 10,152 acres.

Results at the Green Ridge experimental farm show increases of 8-10 bushels of wheat per acre over a period of years when fertilizer was used. Local farmers have also experienced good results. On the R. T. Shelton farm near Hughesville, an increase of five bushels per acre of barley was secured in the spring of 1937 where fertilizer was applied even after the army worms had reduced the yield 50 per cent.

TWO INJURED AS TRUCK TURNS OVER

Two men received minor injuries Friday evening when the Model A Ford truck in which they were riding collided with a 1937 Buick coupe driven by James Riley and turned over at Sixth street and Kentucky avenue.

Oscar Porter, 253 East Jackson street, and Elisha B. Pirtle suffered arm and shoulder injuries. Pirtle, who was knocked unconscious, was taken to Bothwell Hospital in McLaughlin's ambulance and given treatment by Dr. M. P. Shy. He returned home that night.

According to Porter, who owned the car and was driving, he was going north on Kentucky avenue when he was struck on the right rear fender by the Buick. The Ford was turned over by the crash and it was necessary to break the glass in a door to extricate Pirtle.

The other occupants of Porter's car were "Spot" Hopkins, Arthur English and his son, the latter two are colored. The men were all WPA employees and were returning home from work when the accident occurred.

THREE PERSONS BURN TO DEATH IN A K. C. TAXI

Two Others Taken From Car In a "Critical Condition"

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Three persons, one of them a woman, were burned to death today when a taxicab in which they were riding failed to make a curve, rolled over three times and burst into flames.

Two other persons were taken to a hospital, where attendants said their conditions were "very critical."

The dead were identified as: Mrs. Hazel Erter.

Byron D. (Duke) Brown, about 41, driver of the cab,

Edward Halvey, an employee of the Missouri Cattle Co.

At the hospital the injured men were listed as:

William Hudson, said to be a former deputy constable.

Frank Ziobro, an upholsterer who recently moved here from Minneapolis.

Witnesses of the accident said the intense heat kept them from opening the jammed doors. Firemen played water on the burning wreck for 10 minutes before battering open the doors and dragging out the victims.

James Swanson, 27-year-old Negro PWA worker walking along the central industrial district street where the accident occurred said he threw a rock through the rear window of the cab in hope some of its screaming occupants might crawl out.

Lenny Bishop, freight house employee, said the gas tank apparently split as the machine turned over and the liquid was fired by friction from the sliding car.

STAFF MEETING ON SOCIAL SECURITY

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 22.—A meeting of the state staff of the Social Security Commission, together with district supervisors, was held Thursday and Friday, January 20 and 21.

"We have one of the most important jobs in the state—that of providing peace and security for our helpless and unfortunate citizens," said George I. Haworth, state administrator, who opened the meeting. "Do not let anyone convince you that any other thing except your efficiency and enthusiasm will enable you to hold your jobs. There is important work to be done and it must be done well. We must administer this program efficiently in order that we may fulfill the real purpose behind the law—that of providing reasonable security for the needy old people, the unemployed and the dependent children of Missouri."

Arthur W. Nebel, director of public assistance, discussed other related phases of the social security program. In discussing the district supervisors' duties Mr. Nebel advised them, "unfailing patience, tact, and understanding will be necessary on your part to interpret to the public the objectives and provisions of the social security law."

Discussions of matters of procedure followed, led by the heads of the various departments. Miss Reba E. Choate, assistant director, division of public assistance, spoke on aid to dependent children. Miss Mary L. Pyles, director of child welfare services, explained the relation of her department to the other children's programs and Melvin W. Sneed, director of research and statistics, discussed the aims of his department and explained the use and purpose of various statistical forms. W. H. Stone, assistant in the division of public assistance spoke on old age assistance. Miss Frances Hoffman, assistant in the division of public assistance, spoke on certifications to W. P. A. Arthur W. Nebel, director of public assistance, presided at a general discussion of questions and problems encountered in the administration of the program.

WILL CONTINUE FILIBUSTER ON LYNCHING BILL

Dixie Senators To Resume 14-Day Battle In Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Dixie Senators agreed today to continue their speech-making against the anti-lynching bill next week.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) said after a caucus of the southern group that opposition speeches would continue until it was demonstrated the measure could not pass. The filibuster against the bill already has been under way 14 days.

About the middle of next week Chairman Glass (D-Va.), of the appropriations committee, may ask that the senate sidetrack the legislation in favor of the independent offices appropriations measure. Southerners expressed confidence they would have sufficient strength to carry such a motion.

"There are a lot of senators who haven't debated the bill at all," Connally said, "and those who have want to talk again."

"We are not delaying any legislation," he added in response to a question. "The selection of legislation which we are to act upon is a matter for the senate leadership."

Senator Backs Action

"The leadership has chosen this (anti-lynching) bill, and we are against it. If they want to pass an appropriations bill they can take it up and pass it. If they want to take up the administration's reorganization bill they can do it."

"But if the leadership wants to subordinate everything else to this bill then that is their responsibility."

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, has called for night sessions beginning Monday in an effort to end the filibuster. Proponents of the anti-lynching bill predicted these sessions would wear out the southern speech-makers in a week or so, and permit passage of the measure.

Senator Van Nuys (D-Ind.), a co-author of the bill, said there were more than enough votes pledged to pass it.

Beginning Monday, the senate sessions are scheduled to begin at 11 a. m., and continue until 10 or 11 p. m. without any dinner recess.

Ministering to Physical Needs

"Brass Tacks" on the Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Mark 1:34—"And he healed many that were sick."

(By Dr. Alvin E. Bell) service to our fellow men. So (The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 23 is Mark 1:29-45, the Golden Text being, Mark 1:34, "And he healed many that were sick.") It is never far from the place of divine worship to the place of a fever; and straightway they tell him of her; and he came and took her by the hand, and raised her up; and the fever left her, and she ministered unto them." Are we telling the Good Physician of our sick and bringing him to them as did these early followers of our Lord? How promptly and effectively the Lord responds to such appeals of human need: "They tell him of her; and he came, and took her by the hand, and raised her up."

Authority Over Disease

In last Sunday's lesson there was displayed Jesus' authority in the realm of doctrine. "They were astonished at his doctrine, for he taught them as one that had authority." His authority even extended to the realm of demons. "For with authority," they said, "he commandeth even the unclean spirits, and they do obey him." Again he asserts his authority, this time in the realm of disease. Luke the physician tells us that it was "a great fever" with which Simon's wife's mother "was holden," and that "Jesus 'stood over her and rebuked the fever; and it left her.'" And the word Luke used here for "rebuked" is the same word he used to describe Jesus' exercise of authority over the evil spirit. This authority of Jesus in the realm of disease was displayed on a wider scale at sunset of that busy day, when "they brought unto him all that were sick, and them that were possessed with demons. And all the city was gathered together at the door. And he healed many that were sick with divers diseases, and cast out many demons and he suffered not the demons to speak, because they knew him."

Source of Authority

Jesus, walking among the rows of sick and afflicted brought to his door that evening, is the picture of the Good Physician meeting perfectly a dying world's every need. That sunset marked "the end of a perfect day." How that day and every day of the Good Physician's busy life began, are told us next: "In the morning, a great while before day, he rose up and went out, and departed into a desert place, and there prayed." When his disciples found him, and gently chided him for this, as it must have seemed to them, saying of time from a busy day, "All are seeking thee," he replied, "Let us go elsewhere into the next towns, that I may preach there also; for to this end came I forth." As much as to say, "I know it is to be a busy day, therefore I came forth here to pray." Prayer time is by no means wasted time; to take time to pray is to save time for work and to multiply strength for work. The authority Jesus exercised in every realm was purchased by prayer. Our lack of it is explained in the words, "Ye have not because ye ask not. Ye ask and receive not, because ye ask amiss."

TO ADDRESS FARM LOAN GROUPS

M. L. Mitchell

SEVENTEEN EGGS PER HEN DURING LAST DECEMBER

Poultry Flock of F. Claude Lee Tops List In Production

Early hatching of chicks last spring from eggs of high producing parent stock, proper management and feeding of the growing stock during the summer and proper feeding and management of the laying flock this fall and winter are factors contributing to the production of 17 eggs per hen in the F. Claude Lee flock of La Monte during the month of December, states E. B. Winner, assistant county agent.

In summarizing the records for December of nine poultry keepers in Pettis County, Mr. Lee's flock was found to have the highest rate of production per hen and the lowest feed cost per dozen eggs produced. This same flock was also high in production in November, producing 15 eggs per hen.

His laying flock consists of 128 birds all of which were hatched last spring.

The three high flocks during the month of December in production per bird are:

Name	Eggs per hen
1. F. Claude Lee	17
2. J. W. Ezell	10.7
3. F. H. Cook	7

The average feed cost per dozen eggs produced in these three high flocks was 13.7 cents compared to the three low producing flocks which average 51.6 cents feed cost per dozen.

Many poultry raisers in Pettis County fail to get fall and winter eggs which is the time they are normally highest in price because the chicks are hatched too late. For fall and winter eggs, heavy breeds should be hatched in the last half of February and the first half of March. Light breeds should be hatched before the middle of April.

Poultry raisers following the Missouri Grow Healthy Pullet plan in the past have reported 85 to 90 per cent of the chicks raised. Those failing to follow these practices in many cases raise less than 70 per cent.

The six essentials which are not new to many of the poultry raisers of this county are as follows:

1. Hatch eggs or buy chicks in February, March or April.
2. Raise on clean, fresh range.

3. Feed a growing ration.
4. Brood each hatch separately.
5. Separate the cockerels and pullets at eight weeks.
6. Maintain roomy, sanitary quarters.

EMOTIONS INJURE

Doctors cannot always get people well with medicines or the chiropractor with their treatments because of the state of mind of the patient may be the cause of many diseased conditions.

Dr. Roy M. Keller

shows microscopic pictures of normal cells and those injured by fear, injections of toxins, strychnin, by alcohol and from injury. He says the changes in brain cells from various traumatic injuries are identical with those from fear and depressing emotions.

Intestines subjected to injury, under ether anesthesia, caused injury to brain cells. The injury to the intestines also injured the nerve ending therein which is irritation. This caused death of cells in the brain, adrenal glands and liver.

Irritation of the nerves where they leave the spine are shown by Speransky to have the same effect. This gives proof to the chiropractic idea that irritation of the nerves actually do injury to the brain and cause disease. These irritations may be caused by displaced vertebrae at the points where they leave the spine.

I am well aware of the psychological factor in disease and do all that possibly can be done to remove this injurious condition. Member State Board of Chiropractic. Dr. Roy M. Keller, 216 W. 3rd.

FINE RESULTS IN THE GROWING AND CANNING FOODS

Pantry Shelves of 48 Families Have Fruit And Vegetables

Eighty-four Pettis county farm women, all of them members of families having loans with the Farm Security Administration followed last January's advice to "Plan, Plant and Preserve". As a result, the pantry shelves, cellars and basements of these 84 families now boast a total of 12,147 quarts of fruit and some 150 bushels of stored garden truck.

That is the information given out by Mrs. Marie Buck, Home Supervisor for the Farm Security Administration in Pettis County, following a check-up on food preservation reports prepared by the families.

Canning and storing of food for the family used during the winter is a part of the farm and home plan set up by each family having a loan from the Farm Security Administration. Home production of foods is one of the major items in this plan which is intended to guide the family in providing adequate food.

Making New Start

"That is a very necessary item," Mrs. Buck explained. "All of these families, emerging from the depression, sickness or other misfortunes, have been living on poor diets. In addition they are making a new start with the help of FSA loans. Every dollar saved by home food production is another rung in the ladder back to economic independence.

"In drawing up the farm and home plan, the family estimates the amount of vegetables, fruits, dairy products and meat needed for a year's supply. An attempt is made to supply at least 50 per cent of this by home production during the first year of the loan period."

Basis for estimates of these needs, she said, is furnished by figures from the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. D. A. In this section of the country where canned and stored foods are needed for about eight months out of each year, each member of the family requires approximately 20 quarts of tomatoes, 20 qts. of other vegetables and fruit, and 10 qts. of meat, making a total of 80 qts. per person. In addition to the canned food 5 bu. of fruit and 3 bu. of vegetables should be stored for each member of the family.

A wide variety of vegetables is possible where gardens are carefully planned. The FSA borrowers in the County took advantage of this by planning carefully in advance and selecting varieties best adapted to local growing conditions. Each family also tries to grow and use at least one new variety each year.

Pettis County families this year produced 47 qts. per person.

Mrs. Buck said this record was considered especially encouraging in the face of dry weather last summer which made gardening a difficult venture.

"Careful planning long before planting time and fall plowing probably were the greatest factors contributing to the success of these gardens," said the Home Supervisor. "By following planting schedules, the families were able to keep their gardens in almost constant production, thus getting the highest efficiency from the 'Old Garden Patch'."

"When a dry spell or other misfortune ruined a particular crop, they didn't lose courage but went right ahead with a later variety or another vegetable. Then to make the most of their truck crops production, these persistent gardeners followed a careful plan of canning and storing. Now, with the winter winds beginning to blow, they have rows of tasty canned fruits and vegetables on the shelves, dried fruit laid away and potatoes, onions, squash, turnips and other vegetables stored in the cellar."

Home Supply Helpful

She emphasized that this gardening and food storing program will have little effect on sales of commercial preserved foods. She explained the farm families in general do not buy a great deal of canned fruits and vegetables. If the home-grown supply runs out they do without or else increase their consumption of meat.

This is especially true of those having FSA loans. They are putting every cent of cash possible into retirement of their loans and payment of other debts. What they don't raise, they do without.

Consequently, without a carefully planned garden and food preservation program they probably would have tried to get along on a very poorly balanced diet. As a result, sickness probably would have increased, slowing down progress toward repayment of loans.

"And, naturally, the sooner the loans are paid off, the sooner they will become economically independent and in the market for manufactured goods," Marie Buck concluded.

DEAN IRION GAVE ADDRESS BEFORE TEACHERS HERE

General Theme of Speaker Was English Courses Of Study

Dean Theo W. H. Irion, of the University of Missouri faculty, Saturday morning addressed the Sedalia Community Teachers Association at their January meeting held in the Smith-Cotton high school auditorium.

Dean Irion's talk was both instructive and interesting. He approached his general theme of English courses of study by tracing the development and changes which have taken place and are still taking place in education—particularly higher education.

His deductions were based upon psychological study of individual human beings from infancy to maturity, and upon pedagogic methods of improving education. New aims due to constant changes and progress in civilization are continually showing in to education, he explained, but since the old ones are not and cannot be discarded the result is that there are necessarily many aims and the problems of educators are much more complex. The construction of courses of study is therefore made more complicated. A balance must be maintained, the effects must be adequate to prepare men and women for life, and at the same time the child, his nature and his needs must be understood, and satisfied as the most vital interest of education.

Music Numbers Given

The meeting was opened with a short business meeting, Mr. Headlee, the president, presiding.

Miss Margaret Love, instructor of music in the Sedalia school system played a beautiful violin solo by Moskowski. Miss Martha Redmond accompanied her on the piano. A vocal duet, "The Old Refrain," by Fritz Kreisler, was sung by Misses Frances and Mary Helen Meyer accompanied by Miss Jerry Teufel all of the Sedalia faculty, and was enjoyed by all.

C. F. SCOTTEN IS SPEAKER TO P. T. A.

C. F. Scotten, superintendent of Pettis County public schools gave a most interesting and educational talk on his recent trip to England and Europe at the Washington school P. T. A. last Friday afternoon in the school auditorium.

Of the seven countries he visited, Mr. Scotten said, he thought England was the most beautiful. Probably the reason for this, he continued, was the unusual amount of rainfall making the shrubbery, grasses and flowers most abundant. While in England he visited some of the schools and found them very much like ours except, of course, the history and geography were different.

He said that of all the places he visited he liked England and Switzerland best. Germany, he said, was the most nearly like the United States, country life being practically the same and the buildings in the towns and cities more nearly like the United States than any other country.

The other countries he visited were France, Holland, Belgium, and Italy. He visited most of the points of interest in these seven countries and described them most interestingly to his audience, using pictures and souvenirs which he had brought back to illustrate.

Mr. Scotten ended his talk by saying he was glad that he had the opportunity to see and visit these foreign countries and that he appreciated the courtesy and welcome he was shown while over there, but he was glad to be an American citizen and live in the United States where we have freedom of religion, of the press, and of speech.

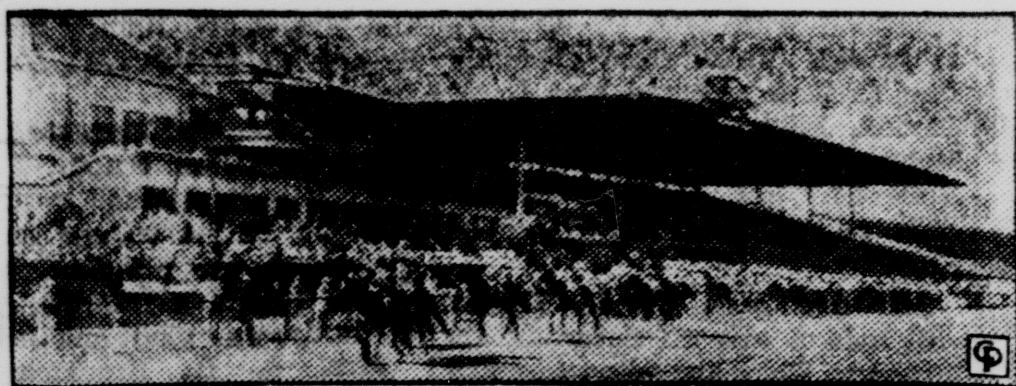

Preceding the talk there was a short business session. Mrs. William Reed, president of the Parent Teachers Council, announced a Founder's Day banquet on February 15, to which all P. T. A. members are invited to attend. Mrs. Dorsay, president of Missouri State P. T. A. will be the guest speaker. The place has not been definitely decided upon.

Mrs. Robert Rapp announced the regular monthly meeting of the Washington school Parent Education Class would be held Tuesday afternoon, January 25 at 2:30 o'clock in the auditorium and urged all P. T. A. members to attend.

The program by the Washington school pupils was as follows: "The Rangers," a musical selection by the school orchestra. "The Hummingbird," song by the sixth grade pupils.

"Old Man Spendthrift," a play by the sixth grade pupils.

Special Workouts for Boxers in The Golden Gloves Tournament

NOVICE DIVISION FOR BOUTS NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT

Matches Be Arranged According to Weights and Experience

A special workout of all Golden Glove amateur boxers is to be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at which time announcements of interest will be made. All boys who are entered and who expect to go into the district tournament are requested to make their appearance at today's meeting.

Joe Ordway, coach and trainer, with the assistance of Lawrence N. England and Clarence Henley, expect to push the boys through some of the hardest workouts yet so they will be in good condition for their first fights on Thursday night at Convention Hall, Liberty Park.

Mr. Ordway Saturday announced all beginners, those boys who have had only one or two fights and those who have not experienced the taste of the square ring, will be placed in a novice division and will make their appearance on the Thursday card. All boys who emerge from this first night's battles will meet the more experienced boys on the finals Monday night.

In making this arrangement, it gives the novice more chance of winning and at the same time more ring experience so they will be prepared to meet the more experienced boxer.

Many of the boys who are entered and who have been attending workouts regularly are more than pleased with the experience they have obtained through the workouts at Fire Station No. 2, and all are anxious to be seen in the district tournament bouts.

Matched As To Weights

The bouts in the tournament are to be matched according to weights, no more than two or three boys being allowed over the classified weight for a class. Otherwise a boy weighing 118 pounds must weigh not more than 120 to 121 pounds else be classified into the above class. They will be matched according to the experience they have had in the ring, the number of fights on record and the amount of workouts they have attended, otherwise the bouts will be evenly matched to give each boy his justified chance.

The Sedalia Democrat-Capital district tournament of Golden Gloves, which will be held on Thursday night and the finals on Monday night, January 31, is expected to be one of the largest held in this section.

S-C TIGERS LOSE TO CLINTON FIVE BY SCORE 46-26

Dodd Takes Scoring Honors With 7 Field Goals and 3 Free Shots

Trounced 46 to 26 in one of the worst games played by the Smith-Cotton Tigers, the Sedalians met their masters Friday night, in the Clinton high school quintet. It was Clinton's game all of the way. Jumping into the lead, seconds after the contest started, the visitors paced by Dodd began a rally that ended with the gun.

The Sedalia quintet looked terrible on the court, getting shot after shot at the basket, but were unable to arch the sphere enough to get it to drop through the basket rim. It was very apparent the Tigers were over-confident of their "small-town" visitors and with Clinton taking the lead were unable to get their wits enough to make any kind of decent come-back.

It was true Clinton had some height on the Tigers, but along with this advantage they had nerve to shoot the ball, and their shots were accurate. Their long heaves were often good for two points. When a ball rolled around the rim a Clinton basketballer followed up and gave it a little boost back to the basket.

The prediction that Booth, captain of the team, would be trouble, was proved by his excellent work and his shooting. Booth accounted for five baskets and one free throw. Dodd, the 210 football player with plenty of height also proved out to be troublesome. Dodd only accounted for seven of the baskets of that forty-six score.

As a matter of fact all of the Clinton team was clicking to perfection and their floor work made the Tigers look pitiful throughout the contest.

Meyers and Alpert as usual accounted for the big end of the Tiger score, each getting four baskets while Meyers did come through and accounted for his four free throws, while Alpert missed his five chances of getting accounting for five points via the free-throw route.

Coach George Ramsey of the Clinton team was surprised at the results of the game as he and Davenport both were willing to settle for a one-point victory in accordance with previous games the teams had played with other basketball quintets who they have met before Friday night's contest.

Coach Ramsey, following the game, had the nerve to state he expected to see his team show much more improvement in their play before the district tournaments. Should this be true the other teams had just as well remain at home.

First Baseball Holdout Dropped Out for 5 Years

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22.—(AP)—This being the season of the baseball holdout, the story one of the earliest if not the first "big name" contract dissenter should be timely.

Joe Corbett, star pitcher for the old Baltimore Orioles in the '90s, left a real mark for the Dizzy Deans, the Joe DiMaggios and the rest to shoot at.

Forty years ago Corbett returned his contract with the notation he wanted $3,000 for the season, or else.

The management's return telegram contained the two-word punch: "You're crazy."

Shortly after the season of 1898 opened, the Orioles met Corbett's terms. By that time the younger brother of the late James J. Corbett, former heavyweight boxing champion, had his neck bowed. He had decided to quit the game. A telegram signed by every member of the team failed to change his mind.

For five years he was a holdout. When he returned it was as a minor leaguer, with Los Angeles. He went back to the big leagues as a member of the St. Louis club, returned to the Pacific coast league to pitch for the San Francisco Seals in 1905 and dropped out.

Corbett, 60 years old and recovering from illness which has confined him in his home here for a month, has this advice to offer to modern holdouts: "If you think you're right, stick to it. But don't forget, it's pretty hard to beat those hours."

PICARD FIRES A 66 TO LEAD AT PASADENA OPEN

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 22.—@—Handsomely Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., fired the lowest round of the tournament today to grab the lead in the $3,000 Pasadena open at the golf half-way point with a total score of 136.

Picard, with a 70 yesterday, scrambled for a par 36 on the first nine today, but burned the Brookside course with a 30 on the trip back for a 66—five shots under par.

One stroke back were Jimmy Hines, of Garden City, New York, with 68-69, and Eric Seavall, Glendale, with 69-68, for totals of 137.

Ben Hogan, the Texan from Fort Worth, came in with a sizzling 67 for a total score of 138 and Jack Grout, Picard's assistant at Hershey, with a 68 for 139. Grout shot the last nine in 31.

Harry Cooper, the old master, stripped four strokes off par and added a 67 to his first round 72 for 139 to remain in the top flight.

Will MacPhail Give Flatbush Ski Slide in Center Field?
Larry Says Outfielders and Catchers Are First Need
Alarmed Scribes Recall St. Louis-Cincy Trades

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Fears are expressed by some of our colleagues that the administration of Leland Stanford (Larry) MacPhail as general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers will chill baseball fanaticism in Flatbush, where baseball fanaticism was born.

Looking back at some of MacPhail's snappy innovations in Cincinnati, some of the scribes have become afflicted with the horrible apprehension that Larry will erect summer ski slides in center field, along with merry-go-rounds and perhaps a German band. I don't know any reason for the horror of ski slides. Most of the Brooklyn outfielders the last few years seemed to be wearing skiis, and a slide might not be amiss.

"What I am concerned about just now," says Larry, "is more and better outfielders and a catcher. I haven't even thought of night baseball yet, or a merry-go-round. We are going to get a ball club."

That's fine, say Larry's severest critics. But where? St. Louis? One writer warns that if MacPhail buys any bums from the Cardinals, the gutters of Flatbush will run with blood. It is pointed out, in this connection, that MacPhail was "Rickey's Charley McCarthy" at Cincinnati, accepting in trade a number of Gas House castoffs.

But Cincy Didn't Suffer
As a matter of fact, Cincinnati did all right by most of the trades with the Cardinals, and I prefer to think it was the friendship between Branch Rickey and MacPhail that inspired some of the deals. MacPhail and Rickey were at University of Michigan together. Rickey installed MacPhail as general manager of the Columbus team of the American Association, one of the Cardinals' chain stores. From there Larry went to Cincinnati where he did very well, not only financially but in building the team and the Reds' farm system which is about ready to spew some ivory into the majors.

Larry's difficulties in Brooklyn may lie in the friction of the rival factions that own the Dodgers, rather than the newspapers. Most of the baseball writers are friendly to the go-getting redhead. Besides he can be assured of a fair shake in that direction. It is the interests that have their money in the team that spell trouble. The Dodgers are owned by Steve McKeever, the Ebbets' heirs and a Brooklyn bank which holds a $557,000 mortgage. But I understand MacPhail has been given full authority, and a three-year contract, which gives him a good chance to ride over whatever obstacles he may find. He even has the power to fire the manager.

Night Baseball Eventually
The Dodgers are pretty sure of night baseball under MacPhail, though perhaps not immediately. The new general manager has put the game under lights wherever he was boss—at Columbus and Cincinnati. Since night baseball improved gate receipts in those two cities, MacPhail is not likely to abandon it now.

MacPhail is a friend of Charley Dressen, whom he installed as manager at Cincinnati. Dressen is manager at Nashville, and Brooklyn has a working agreement with the Vols. Some of the boys are making book that if Burleigh Grimes stubs his toe, Dressen will step in promptly as manager of the Dodgers.

The important thing MacPhail brings to Brooklyn is efficient management. He is a builder. Before long Flatbush may find it likes him.

tee for Snead's action, although the West Virginians have been profuse in his apologies.
Horton Smith was among the leaders with a 140, four strokes out of first place.

BASEBALL PLAYERS GOLF TOURNAMENT PLAYED TODAY

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Paul Wanner, the left handed Pittsburgh outfielder, and Jack Russell, former American league pitcher, will fight it out tomorrow for the baseball players golf championship. Both survived two 18-hole rounds today.

Wanner, set up as favorite in the tournament auction pool, eliminated Lloyd Brown, Cleveland pitcher and co-medalist, in the semi-finals this afternoon, 4 and 3, after walloping Watson Clark, former Brooklyn pitcher, 3 and 2, in the first round.

Russell nosed out Johnny Moore, 2 and 1, after disposing of Gerald Walker, Chicago White Sox outfielder, 4 and 3.

Hold a Benefit 'Golden Gloves' For Schoolmate

A "takeoff" on the Sedalia District of Golden Gloves, sponsored by the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, was held Friday afternoon in the form of a benefit "Junior Golden Gloves" for Thomas "Tommy" Cave, thirteen year old, seventh grade student in Mark Twain school, when Frankie Joe Hugelman sponsored a boxing exhibition in the basement of the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hugelman, 312 South Sneed avenue.

"Mike Jacobs" Hugelman made all his own arrangements, did his own match-making, and arranged with his personal friend Hugh "Spot" Curran, official Golden Glove referee, to handle the fights. His father well known sportsman and city alderman was appointed "time-keeper." Not only that but when the officials appeared for their work they were made to pay an admission charge just like any of the other customers.

At the close of the show it was announced that $3.60 had been obtained through this entertainment, which was attended by many of the school children along with a number of teachers. The largest paid admission was that of Fire Chief John G. Lucke who "couldn't get change" for his $1.50 and just passed it up.

There was no arguing the fact that every person in the basement enjoyed the bouts. The "fighting names" bestowed upon boxers by Referee Curran were very appropriate and fitted each boy to a "T."

Although the boxers ranged in age from nine to twelve years, they took it on the chin, the nose and in the mid-sections just as well as well trained boxers. Each lad was in the fight at all times swapping punches and not one gave an inkling of wanting to quit.

"Benny" Boland won a decision over "Bobby" Dowdy.

"Danny" Boone out-fought William Jolly.

"Teddy" Llewellyn was given a decision over "Phil" Roach.

Frankie Joe Hugelman out-pointed "Chuck" Carter.

The main bout was won by Fred Roach over "Bob" Griessen, in a spectacular three round bout.

Cecil Landers, one of the entries in the Golden Gloves, made a brief talk to the young fighters, telling them what the training he has received under Joe Ordway, Democrat-Capital trainer, had done for him and what it would mean to him in later years.

"Tommy" Cave, is the son of George Caves 400 Wilkerson avenue, and last Tuesday was taken to the Bothwell hospital and operated upon for a ruptured appendix, and his condition was critical until the last of the week when he showed considerable improvement.

The money obtained will be turned into a school-collection fund at Mark Twain for "Tommy."

SMITH-COTTON TIGERS TO MEET CALHOUN TUESDAY

The 'Rajah' Takes His Place As Baseball's Forgotten Man

BRADDOCK WOULD SCHEDULE RETURN MATCH WITH FARR

N. J. Irishman Says He Is Too Young To Retire From Ring

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Jim Braddock, doubling for old man comeback himself, looked forward today to a 1938 campaign that may lead to another shot at the heavyweight championship, in September, instead of making any further inquiries about the road to the old fighters' home.

Promoter Mike Jacobs of the 20th Century Sporting Club offered Braddock his choice of a return bout with Farr or a match with Max Baer, from whom Jersey Jim won the world heavyweight crown in 1935, on April 1. Originally Jacobs planned to pit the Braddock-Farr winner against Baer on March 11 but Braddock wants a longer breathing spell before swinging back into action.

Braddock told the promoter he wanted to "talk it over with the Missus" before giving a definite answer. Jim is determined to keep going, notwithstanding Mrs. Braddock's desire to have him leave the ring. He was ready to quit, if decisively beaten by Farr, but now has taken on fresh ambition.

"I'm not old enough to quit, the way I feel now," said Jim, "and I'm not too old to take another shot at the title."

A return Braddock-Farr match would be a natural, after last night's proceedings. Only a sensational rally in the last two rounds saved Braddock from a licking.

"I was feeling so strong at the finish that I think I might have knocked out Farr if it had been a longer match," said Braddock, notwithstanding the critical opinion that he was benefited by the short route. "I won because I rated my pace properly. My legs had a lot of spring in them at the finish."

Braddock said he was willing to fight either Farr or Baer at 12 rounds in his next fight. He expects to give Jacobs his decision Monday, at which time Farr also is slated to confer with the promoter. The Britisher went to Long Branch, N. J., for the week end.

BRADDOCK WINS OVER FARR IN A STRONG RALLY

Slam-Bang Finish Gives Irishman Decision Over Englishman

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Battle-scarred Jim Braddock came from behind with a gallant finish Friday night to upset expectations and beat tough Tommy Farr, British heavyweight champion before a near-capacity match before a near-capacity crowd in Madison Square Garden.

The Garden was in an uproar as Braddock rallied in the ninth, stepping briskly as he stung and lashed Farr with both hands.

The unprepared and Braddock repeatedly beat his rival to the punch. The tenth and final round was slam-bang all the way. Farr's rushes were met by Braddock's well-timed hooks and uppercuts. Jim drove his rival to the ropes then they swung toe to toe in the closing moments.

A penalty for hitting low, which deprived Farr automatically of the third round by Referee Mickey Avoy's ruling, actually cost the Briton the decision. Tommy had a punching edge in this round but was penalized for landing a left swing kick below the belt. But for this McAvoy, who scored four rounds for each fighter, with two even, would have been obliged to vote in Farr's favor.

As is was, the referee, exercising his discretion, decided Braddock's more impressive finish tipped the scales in Jim's behalf.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The forgotten man of baseball, Rogers Hornsby, hopes the game remembers . . .

Perhaps the greatest right-handed hitter of all-time, "The Rajah" has a bewildered look in his eyes as he looks ahead to the start of another spring training season—wondering if the sport to which he gave 22 years holds anything more for him.

His baseball future is dim. Deposed as manager of the St. Louis Browns and behind him a career with the Chicago Cubs, St. Louis Cardinals, Boston Braves and New York Giants, Hornsby finds himself a forgotten figure of a pastime of which he once was a so brilliant and spectacular part.

Stretched out on his hotel suite davenport, Hornsby drew a hand across the still sharp, penetrating eyes which once made him a feared batsman in both major leagues.

"I tell my boy, Bill, that baseball's the greatest business in the world," he said, "but sometimes I wonder. They tell me I know baseball and players, and all of a sudden I find myself out of a job and all they tell me is 'you bet on the horses'. I remember the day the Browns fired me last summer. Three horses won that day and I was on 'em. So was Buck Newsum, the Boston Red Sox pitcher. He won as much as I did and this winter the Browns traded for him. I guess it's who bets what."

Not for nothing is Hornsby called the "stormy petrel". He'll give you a stare that never wavers, calling the turns on things he doesn't understand. Because he didn't smoke he banned smoking? "That's a laugh," he observed, "I wouldn't let my clubs smoke in uniform because I didn't like it. How does it look to the fans to see a guy walking to the dugout sucking on a cigarette? That's bush league stuff."

Hornsby swung his feet to the floor, reached for his coat and hat. "Well, I guess I gotta be on my way," he said, and then, as the thought struck him, snorted: "Training camps! What does a kid between 18 and 25 want a training camp for? You know, I played ball day in and out that age and never needed conditioning. Do you have to spend a week lolling in the sun just to get in shape to play the Little Shagbuns on Saturday? It just goes to show how the sport has changed."

"I don't know what I'll do. Maybe there's still a place in the game for me. I don't know any other business and I don't want to. Baseball is the best. But it's like everything else. Some players are for you and others against you. I'm a tough guy, a gambler on horses and a slave-driver—and I wish I knew why."

"I only wanted to win."

Among them is "Bo" Merwick, one of the finest players ever developed at St. Benedict's college of Atchison.

CARDS RETURN OGRODOWSKI AND WINFORD TO MINORS

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Pitcher Jim Winford and Catcher Brusie Ogradowski have been released outright to minor league clubs, the St. Louis Cardinals announced tonight.

Winford will report to Houston of the Texas league and Ogradowski to Rochester of the International league. Both teams are Cardinal farms.

The release of Ogradowski leaves the Red Birds with Mickey Owen and Herb Bremer as their only catchers. However, they will attempt to convert Outfielder Don Padgett into a catcher at their baseball school in Winter Haven, Fla.

A "faculty" of 27, including 22 managers, was announced for the school, which will open Feb. 21 and close March 19.

A critical estimate of the services and potentialities of a political individualist, opportunist and egoist who never has submitted to the discipline of doctrine, consequently never has been completely anything. Diet and Health

By
LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.HOW BODY FUNCTIONS
"CARRY ON"

We are all aware that certain important functions of the body are carried on without any voluntary control on our part. They are controlled by the vegetative nervous system, and have to do with the control of such things as the secretion of glands and the movement of smooth muscles.

For instance, the secretion of our salivary glands is carried out without any will power on our part, and we cannot, by exerting will, increase or reduce it. Our hairs stand on end, and goose pimples form without voluntary control. The smooth muscle in our blood vessels dilates or contracts, changing the blood supply at any part entirely without our knowledge or control.

It has long been thought that the nervous system which controls these functions is entirely separate from the brain. This, however, may not be entirely true. A great deal of work is being done to show that certain areas of the brain have control over these vegetative functions.

Brain Section Removed

For instance, I have just heard of a case of a woman who had a certain kind of epileptic attack. It would begin by a tremendous flow of saliva, and she would gush literally two or three quarts. Following this, she would have a spasm of the muscles of the face. A neurologic surgeon, under local anesthesia, opened a flap in her skull and exposed the brain and touched some parts of the surface of it with an electric current. She was conscious so that she could co-operate and communicate with him. When he hit a certain place she said, "There it is!" and sure enough, the salivation and the face twitching began. This small area of the brain was removed, with the result that her attacks ceased entirely.

It was found out by examining into her history that when she was a little girl she had fallen down and had an injury to her skull, which was probably the cause of these attacks.

This shows that such an apparently involuntary function as salivation has a center in the brain cortex itself.

The erection of hairs is also controlled in a small area of the brain, and when this area is put out of commission in animals, they have a constant erection of hair brought on by any sound or stimulation.

Questions From Readers

E. B.: "Please tell me what could be used to remove brown spots recently noticed forming on my hands. Some say liver spots, some say not."

Answer: The medicines usually used for spot removers are ammoniated mercury or bismuth subnitrate. Any druggist is capable of making up a proper preparation of these.

W. S.: "Please let me know whether there is any cure or relief for trichinosis."

Answer: Trichinosis is a self-limited disease, and there is no remedy known which will help in killing the parasites.

F. E. C.: "Please give me the symptoms of colitis and any suggestions as to food."

Answer: Colitis is an irritation of the colon, which is accompanied by cramping, sometimes diarrhoea with mucous stools. A diet without roughage is best. Leave out bran, whole wheat bread, cereals vegetables with heavy residue, and fruits.
